Mentor: The Kid and the CEO is an inspiring book to read.

In 1987, Tom Pace, at the age of 30 had $62.53 in his account, a fourth grade reading skill, and a confirmed reputation as a failure. Today, because someone cared enough to spend time with him, he is now spending time with others to encourage them.

Pace is the founder and CEO of the PaceButler Corporation; a multimillion dollar international company. Tom gives a major credit of his success to mentoring; which is the reason he wrote the book, Mentor: The Kid & The CEO.

As an ambassador for the book, The Purpose-Driven Life, by Rick Warren, Pace now gives cases of this book away every month. The interesting thing is that on many occasions, Pace delivers the books to the Oklahoma County jail inmates. He knows the power of an encouraging word that can change a life and change a person's destiny.

Pace now provides encouragement every Tuesday and Wednesday mornings at the ELC Roundtable. ELC stands for Entrepreneurs, Leaders and CEO's. The website is www.elcroundtable.com. Please let me know if you are interested in attending, and I will send in your RSVP!
